BACKGROUND AND CONTEXT

From 25 November, the International Day for the Elimination of Violence against Women, to 10 December, Human Rights Day, the 16 Days of Activism against Gender-Based Violence Campaign is a time to galvanize action to end violence against women and girls around the world. The international campaign originated from the first Women’s Global Leadership Institute coordinated by the Center for Women’s Global Leadership in 1991.

This year, COVID-19 pandemic has exacerbated key risk factors for gender-based violence. Globally there has been an alarming increase in multiple forms of violence against women and girls, especially physical, psychological, sexual and economic forms of domestic violence fueled by household economic and food insecurity and confined living conditions due to lockdown and social isolation measures. School closures, financial and food insecurity have heightened the risk of violence for girls including sexual exploitation, harassment, and child marriage. There are also reports of increased sexual abuse and harassment, both online and offline, and in some settings, an increase in femicides. As clearly set out in the UN SG’s report on socio-economic impact of the COVID-19 pandemic, this is not only a public health crisis, but humanity is running a risk of reversing decades of progress in the fight against poverty and exacerbating already high levels of inequality. Against this background, the global theme for this year’s 16 Days Campaign, aligning with the UN Political Engagement Strategy is: Orange the World: Fund, Respond, Prevent, Collect!

Jordan’s case was not different. Overall, COVID-19 and associated movement restrictions have affected Jordanian women disproportionately; which left them with limited options to access services that they might need. Based on the evidence of many reports, assessment and studies on the effect of COVID-19 on the lives on many women and girls in Jordan, such as UNFPA’s Rapid Assessment in collaboration with Plan International and the Institute for Family Health which pointed out that Gender-based violence— particularly domestic violence— has increased during the pandemic: with 69 percent of all survey respondents and informants advising of increasing risks.1 Based on that, Jordan campaigned on domestic violence with the leadership of The Jordanian National Commission for Women (JNCW) - which is the women’s machinery in Jordan - in consultation with key stakeholders who decided that the national theme for this year’s 16 Days Campaign is in alignment with the global theme “Eliminating all forms of Domestic Violence against women and girls” under the slogan “Together against Violence”. The campaign “Together Against Violence” adopted the hashtags #TogetherAgainstViolence and #نحن_معكم_ضد_العنف, with the aim to raise awareness on the various forms of domestic violence and protection services available for survivors in Jordan, providing a unified message to confront this phenomenon in coordination with the Government of Jordan, civil society and the UN.

UNFPA JORDAN ACTIVITIES

Since 2006, UNFPA Jordan has been celebrating the 16 Days Campaign and supporting its national partners to mark this campaign. This year, under the national theme “Eliminating all forms of Domestic Violence against women and girls” and as direct implementation with the generous contribution of Government of France, Norway, Sweden and other generous donors; UNFPA Jordan organized several activities, adapting the campaigning to the COVID situation and movement restrictions, using different online outreach methods to ensure that the joint national messages reached everyone across the Kingdom; such as:

Podcast Episodes on Domestic Violence:
This year, UNFPA aimed at diversifying platforms for women and girls accessing information and creating innovative, interactive segments that tackle the impact of domestic violence on women and girls in Jordan. Based on that, UNFPA worked on two projects in collaboration with Sowt which is a podcasting platform that produces and distributes high-quality audio programs in Arabic, tackling sensitive topics in the Arab world. One project was to mark the 16 Days Campaign by developing 4 podcast episodes under the campaign’s national theme “Eliminating all forms of Domestic Violence against Women and Girls”. The podcast episodes aims to raise awareness of different forms of Domestic Violence, but also to shed light on the real life of GBV survivors and their success stories on how they reached help and moved forward and so to encourage women and girls in Jordan to speak up and to seek for help and to create a counter narrative that break the silence and condemn the acceptance of violence.

1) Episode 1: “امسك متحرش”
The episode is part of Sowt’s “Al-Mostajad” podcast program that tackles the world's most recent news. In this episode called “Hold the harasser” the narrative focuses on the history of the #MeToo movement in the Arab world, starting with its initial rise in Egypt to its current events in Palestine and Jordan, where the movement is called “Tal’at/طالعات” covering challenges and opportunities of the feminist movement dealing with new technologies and old legal frameworks.

The episode was shared on Sowt’s social media platforms (Facebook, Instagram and Twitter) together with visual advertisement and reached more than 3,000 viewers.

The episode is part of Sowt’s “Eib” podcast program which means “shame” that tackles topics that are rarely discussed in Arab society. This episode, titled “Will he kill me or not?” covers the story of a Jordanian woman survivor of domestic violence perpetrated by the husband as an example of thousands of other women daily struggles with patriarchal societies. The episode also highlights different protection services that are provided in Jordan for all women and girls who seek for support and help.

2. United Nations Communication Group (UNCG) joint activities:
Each year, the United Nations Communication Group works on the creation of a joint UN social media package to be used during the 16 Days Campaign. A smaller taskforce, which consisted of four organizations (UNFPA, UN Women, UNDP and IOM) worked on developing the social media package to be used during the Orange Hour on 4th of December at 8 PM - 9 PM, using also the national hashtags #TogetherAgainstViolence, #16DaysJO and #نحن_معكم_ضد_العنف.
The social media package included the common national messages developed by JNCW and the National Family Protection Team in addition to the developed key messages from the GBV SWG with the consultation of members from the host and refugee communities.

Several organizations such as JNCW, SIGI, UN Women, UNFPA and also several youth networks such as Y-PEER and HeForShe, contributed to raise awareness on Domestic Violence during the Orange Hour by sharing posts, messages, infographics and materials related to the national theme.

Moreover, the TF worked on organizing a UN Talk under the title of “UN joint support to national efforts in eliminating domestic violence”. During 2020, MoY, UNFPA, UNDP and UN Women in collaboration with the Jordan Youth Peace and Security 2250 National Coalition (YPS 2250 Coalition) launched the virtual “Youth Peace and Security Coffee Break” series which took place on a monthly basis from July-November to convene national conversations around the YPS agenda in light of the COVID-19 pandemic. The aim of the sessions was to highlight and discuss the youth engagement under the YPS agenda with a focus on the current COVID-19 pandemic, in addition to its linkages with the Women, Peace and Security agenda (WPS), and to provide a platform for young people to engage with experts and peace-builders with a specific focus on the Jordan context.

To mark the occasion of the 16 days campaign, the 5th edition of the series discussed the “Interlinkages between UNSCR1325 and UNSCR 2250 and what YPS actors can learn from the WPS journey in Jordan”. Dr. Salma Nims - Secretary General of the Jordanian National Commission for Women (JNCW), led the virtual dialogue on the 26th of November and was attended by 60 participants, and live-streamed on UNFPA’s Youtube Channel with approximately 104 viewers up to date.
Dr. Salma Nims discussed the Jordan experience working under the WPS agenda and the formulation and adoption of the JONAP1325 and its interlinkages with the UNSCR2250. Dr. Salma highlighted that there is a deliberate focus on youth in the JONAP1325, since women are not only women but also youth and these intersectionalities cannot be ignored. She also stressed on the fact that women and youth are not to be regarded as victims, but as part of the change and many initiatives are led by women and youth, and this was especially evident during the lockdown and in the COVID-19 response.

The YPS 2250 Coalition supports youth leadership and youth-led initiatives. A group of young women and men who are members of the YPS 2250 Coalition planned and implemented an initiative called “The Community is My Home”. The initiative was part of the 16 Days of Activism campaign and addresses domestic violence with the aim to raise awareness on this issue in Jordan and the negative impacts it has on the community. The youth members decided to address this issue based on a community-needs assessment they conducted where this was raised as a challenge faced in the communities in Jordan, which has increased during the pandemic.

UNFPA also supported Solidarity Is Global Institute (SIGI); a grassroots women organization to strengthen the reach of a nationwide campaign with a unified message. UNFPA supported in the implementation of SIGI’s following activities:

1. Launch of the campaign: SIGI conducted an online event on zoom which was also live-streamed on their Facebook Page that was attended by more than 130 attendees including young people, SIGI’s partners and members of local and international NGO’s in addition to UN agencies. The launch of the campaign included also the launch of the Digital Clinic for providing online GBV response and prevention services for women and girls survivors of GBV called “Ask SIGI/اسأل تضامن” that also UNFPA supported.

2. Conducting Youth and Technology Conference on Combating Violence against Women and Girls: SIGI conducted its 16th edition of the Youth and Technology Conference under the theme "Protecting Women and Girls from Harassment and Violence in the Workplace" with a focus on eliminating GBV against women and girls as well as solutions overcoming COVID-19 impact, especially domestic and economic violence. 100 young people participated in this 3 day conference to come up with innovative solutions and initiatives to eliminate violence against women and girls in Jordan.

3. Producing and issuing 14 press releases on issues related to the campaign’s theme and the impact of COVID-19 on women and girls in Jordan, such as on: Effect of COVID-19 on girls in Jordan, effect of COVID-19 on women working in agriculture, also its effect on women headed of households in Jordan and more. Moreover, UNFPA supported in producing and designing online frames and infographics with messages under the national theme and figures on combating all forms of Domestic Violence that were shared on their social media platforms. Also, UNFPA supported in the development of 3 position papers on: access to justice during crises, recommendations and suggestions on gender sensitive-based shelters and on combating online violence against women and girls.
UNFPA supported activities reached to around 12,000 persons through the webinars and social media posts.

UNFPA in partnership with the Youth Peer-to-Peer Education Network (Y-PEER) in Jordan and Seenaryo collaborated in a national capacity-building training focusing on expressing youth concerns related to SRHR and GBV utilizing participatory theater approach. 16 young women and men from Y-PEER created 4 stories focusing on child marriage, online harassment, pregnancy outside marriage and family planning in a moving play called “Four O’clock”. Due to COVID-19 restrictions, the audience did not exceed 20 people and social distancing was observed throughout rehearsals. The play was streamed virtually on the 31st of November as part of the 16 Days of Activism Campaign 2020 with around 300 views to date. The ideas and content came from the youth participants themselves, and the capacity-building training applied a participatory and engaging youth-friendly process. Throughout the training, the Y-PEER members also reflected on the tools being used and took part in specific training modules to enable them to run their own participatory workshops with other young people in the future as part of the peer-to-peer education methodology which is the essence of Y-PEER. The Y-PEER network in Jordan works to build the capacity of young people as peer educators and supports them to raise awareness about youth SRHR and GBV issues and is a network designed by young people for young people.
SUMMARY OF THE IMPACT:

This year, the diversity of platforms and methods used by UNFPA to raise awareness on the national common messages of the campaign and on the available services and the type of help available during COVID-19, ensured that all information and messages have reached to a wider segment of the community; especially women and girls across Jordan; capitalizing on the partnerships with the different UN agencies, the Government of Jordan, International and national NGOs and media partners.

Through social media, UNFPA shared more than 130 posts covering all activities by UNFPA; receiving the engagement of more than 2200 followers, reaching a total of more than 66,000 views. Moreover, UNFPA activities were also highlighted in the social media platforms of their partners: Sowt, Radio Al-Balad, JNCW and SIGI reaching a total of more than 530,000 viewers. Also, UNFPA activities were highlighted in the social media platforms of 8 members of the GBV SWG, the UN Jordan and the Canadian Embassy in Jordan.

UNFPA reached through its Implementing Partners to more than 502,600 beneficiaries through their 157 direct implemented activities during the 16 Days Campaign that varied from awareness raising sessions both virtually and in-person, videos, radio and TV shows, musical concerts and more covering all 19 centers that are supported by UNFPA in 8 governorates and 3 Syrian Refugee Camps; covering the north, middle and south sites of Jordan, but also covering all areas in Jordan through the TV and Radio activities.

A quote from a Jordanian 45-year old GBV survivor after attending one of IFH’s 16 Days activities in Zarqa’s WGSS: “With your help and your awareness raising efforts I managed to find my inner self and my strength”

A quote from a Syrian Woman Refugee and GBV survivor in Zaatari Camp after attending one of IFH’s 16 Days activities in Zaatari: “From the activities that I attended, I learned that I can protect myself when I’m empowered. I’m focusing now more on getting out of my house more often and meeting other people and also to start working and depending on myself in order to be stronger and depend on myself.”
MAIN LESSONS LEARNT:

- Focusing campaigning and advocacy efforts under one theme within unified messages and slogans; ensured a more focused and structured campaign towards the combating of Domestic Violence, but ensured also a full coverage and a wider and more effective impact at community level.

- A national theme aligned with JNCW ensured that more people were reached across the development and humanitarian setting, with the same messages, which amplified the impact.

- The involvement of key governmental actors within the Family Violence National Team in the national campaign was considered as a good achievement for JNCW and partners to have more stakeholders involved in the women’s rights agenda.

- Diversifying platforms and methods to raise awareness on the national common messages, in addition to available services and that help is available during COVID-19; ensured that all women and girls could access those information but also ensured a wider reach to more viewers and listeners.

- Having one UN lead talk with high representatives from the government emphasized the importance of partnerships and collective action and efforts towards the national theme - eliminating all forms of domestic violence against women and girls.

- Launching the Drawing Competition - organized by the GBV SWG on National level - on UNHCR’s website and UNHCR’s Social Media Platforms supported in reaching out to a wider audience.
